ALUMNI RETURN FOR PENN STATE DU INITIATION CEREMONY

*Tradition, Brotherhood, and Lifelong Connections
Shine on Locust Lane*

Toward the end of the spring semester, alumni gathered to support the undergraduates by helping to conduct a memorable initiation ceremony to officially welcome the newest class of undergraduate brothers. Held at our storied Chapter House, the event celebrated not only the values of Delta Upsilon but also the powerful connection between alumni and undergraduate members.

The ceremony was enriched by the presence and participation of several alumni who made the journey back to Happy Valley to share in the occasion. Jason Pitts '92 remarked on the strength of the undergraduate Chapter and the excitement surrounding the event:

"I was truly pleased to see the enthusiasm and energy our undergraduate members brought to the initiation process. It was a powerful reminder of the passion and commitment that define our fraternity."

Delta Upsilon's commitment to an open and non-secret initiation was a point of pride for all in attendance. Gerrit Van Burk '91, who also participated in the event, noted:

"I enjoyed meeting this great group of brothers and welcoming them into our fraternity. The continuing tradition of an open and non-secret initiation is something that sets Delta Upsilon apart and is worthy of celebrating."

A highlight of the event came when Alan Piciaccio '89 delivered the traditional charge to the new members. His remarks challenged the young men to take pride in their DU identity and to build a legacy of involvement, leadership, and character as opposed to time in a dorm room, such as Shunk Hall:

"In 20 years, do you want to drive through town with your family and say, 'Look kids—that's where I lived. I'm a Shunker!' Or do you want to proudly drive up to our beautiful home on Locust Lane and say, 'I'm a DU!'"

The initiation ceremony was not just a formal occasion—it was a moment of reconnection, reflection, and inspiration for all who attended. The event reaffirmed the timeless values of Delta Upsilon and showcased the enduring spirit of brotherhood that links generations of Penn State DUs.

Celebrating a Year of Growth, Leadership, and Philanthropy

THE LATEST FROM PENN STATE DU

As the academic year ends, our Chapter reflects on another year of remarkable achievements and continued progress in the areas of brotherhood, service, leadership, and involvement. Our Chapter continues to embody the core values of Delta Upsilon, with a strong commitment to making a positive impact on the Penn State community and beyond.

Campus Engagement

One of the defining moments of our year was our involvement in THON, Penn State's 46-hour dance marathon aimed at raising awareness and funding for the fight against childhood cancer. As always, this was a deeply meaningful event for our Chapter, and we are proud to report that our partnership with Delta Gamma placed us among the top five fundraising organizations.

Together, we raised an incredible $388,000, a figure that speaks volumes about the dedication and effort of our brothers and partners. Having increased our fundraising total for the second year in a row, we are optimistic about setting even higher goals for THON 2026.

Undergraduate Leadership

In addition to philanthropic success, our members continued to shine in leadership roles across campus. Rising senior and former Chapter President Austin Parisi '23 was elected president of the Penn State Interfraternity Council, a significant honor and testament to his commitment to the Greek community. Another brother, Brandon Bayer '26, will lead the PSU Asset Management Group as its newly elected president. I was also recognized for my personal contributions, receiving the Interfraternity Council's "Outstanding New Member" award.

Competition and Growth

Athletically, our Chapter continued to compete with pride and energy, securing championships in both intramural volleyball and flag football. These victories reflect not just talent, but also the strong camaraderie and teamwork that defines our brotherhood.

We also welcomed 29 new members into our Chapter this year. Even in their short time with us, these new brothers have demonstrated a genuine interest in leadership opportunities and have brought fresh ideas and enthusiasm to our Chapter's direction.

As we look to the year ahead, we remain committed to growth, excellence, and living out the values that make Delta Upsilon such a strong and united brotherhood.

Fraternally,
Trevor Katz '27
President

Chapter Goals

- 1 Expand our philanthropic impact through new events.
- 2 Achieve full compliance with IHQ Men of Merit standards.
- 3 Increase Chapter-wide service participation.

DU partners with Delta Gamma for THON and finishes in the top five fundraising organizations with more than $388,000 raised to help prevent childhood cancer.

Embracing a True Brotherhood

Ned Eldridge '79 on DU Bonds, Career Success

"Nothing comes easy," Ned Eldridge '79 said, thinking about his college experience and commitment to the Delta Upsilon brotherhood. He took immense pride in becoming a DU at Penn State, and Ned continues to value the skills and connections he made during his formative college years.

UNDERGRADUATE DEVELOPMENT

Ned joined Delta Upsilon during junior year after networking with some brothers he knew from Penn State Behrend. While it's hard to pick just one favorite memory, he enjoyed the group atmosphere and always being there for his brothers. "If you messed with one of us, you messed with all of us. We looked out for each other."

Ned's half year as social chairman filled an important role for the fraternity. He was responsible for several aspects of organizing DU social events, and Ned credits that position for helping him prepare for professional ventures beyond college.

"Don't be afraid to learn everything you can while you are still in school," he said. Ned's rounded experience at Penn State provided various opportunities for personal development alongside DU involvement. "I took more than 20 gym classes in 12 terms just for the fun of it. That was how I earned a minor in PE."

CAREER VENTURES

After graduation, Ned worked as a teacher and counselor at a juvenile institution before earning his MBA. He then spent nearly five years as a banker with Mellon Bank. In 1989, he began his first entrepreneurial venture working with a friend in the automatic transmission parts business before they sold their company, Recon, in 1998 to a private equity firm where Ned transitioned from the CFO into a role as VP of manufacturing.

"In June 2007, I was retired for about seven months before I started eLoop," he added. eLoop evaluates equipment for companies during their IT refresh cycles, either refurbishing and reselling usable IT equipment or recycling older technology. "We service more than 500 companies in the region and sell more than 3,000 IT assets per month."

PERSONAL LIFE

Decades beyond college, Ned is grateful to remain connected with some DU alumni brothers like Bill Gray '78, Tom Trasser '81, Andrew Barnes '83, and Chet Zuchelli '84. "During football season, I see many others at the games. As we get older and have more time on our hands, we seem to be getting the brothers back together again. It's wonderful!"

Ned married his college sweetheart, Nancy, in 1981. They have three children, who are all Penn State graduates, along with four grandchildren. In his spare time, Ned enjoys staying active, traveling with family, and gathering with family for birthdays or holidays. You can connect with him at neldridge@growthcatalyst.com.

"DU was a great experience for me. I made lifelong friends and hope others get to live that dream themselves!"

Alumni News
